

Suspected Suicide Report

At approximately 09:36 a.m. on August 30, 2001, an incident initially classified as a suspected suicide was reported within the headquarters of NoraOS Incorporated. The event took place in a restricted-access sector of the facility, prompting an immediate internal investigation and the temporary suspension of operations in the surrounding departments.

The subject of the report, Scarlett Jane Baskovach, had been employed at NoraOS Incorporated for two years and three months, serving in a mid-level technical position. At the time of the incident, Ms. Baskovach was 23 years old, with her twenty-fourth birthday scheduled for the following day. Colleagues later noted that she had made no prior indication of distress, nor had she submitted any formal complaints or requests for leave in the weeks preceding the event.

Upon discovery, Ms. Baskovach was found seated in what appeared to be an electrically-rigged restraint apparatus located in an unused testing chamber. The device, whose presence in the facility has not yet been fully accounted for in official equipment logs, was active at the time responders arrived. Ms. Baskovach was unresponsive, and she was pronounced deceased at the scene.

Preliminary documentation describes the circumstances as “highly irregular,” noting inconsistencies between the physical evidence, the room’s access records, and the company’s internal inventory. As of the latest revision of this report, investigators have not ruled out the possibility of external interference, procedural misconduct, or unauthorized experimentation within the facility.

Further details remain classified pending ongoing review by NoraOS corporate oversight and external regulatory authorities.
